

about the revolver?

A. Never mentioned it. She relied on my common sense.

Q. You think it was as much as ten years ago when you bought the cartridges?

A. Fully ten years.

Q. Now, Mr. Stevens, do you remember the night when Mr. Hall went out Thursday night and was never seen alive since?

A. Yes.

Q. Where had you been that day?

A. Simply in town.

Q. I mean with respect to being around the house?

A. My habit was to go down town right after breakfast, get my dinner and go down town again, getting home at six o'clock.

Q. When you say down town, you mean your habit or recollection?

A. My habit.

Q. Any particular recollection of the Wednesday previous to the time the rector disappeared?

A. No.

Q. Mr. Hall was home that day?

A. As far as I can tell. Yes.

Q. You ate your meals with Mr. and Mrs. Hall?

A. Invariably. Once in a while I was invited down to the engine house.

Q. You were not invited Thursday night, September 14th, were you?

A. No.

Q. Did you have dinner at home Thursday?

A. Thursday?

Q. Yes?

A. Yes.